

Albania Severs Trade Relations With Slavs

Split Grows After Blast Of Cominform

Belgrade, Yugoslavia, July 3.—(AP)—Albania slammed a twin blow at Yugoslavia, severing trade relations and telling Marshal Tito's military, political and cultural missions to get out, the foreign ministry declared today.

Yugoslavia retorted with an acid note, terming Albania's action "unprecedented," "brutal" and "grossly insulting" and a violation of international law.

It said Yugoslavia will hold Albania "responsible for all consequences."

Breaks Treaty

The Belgrade radio recounted this latest episode in the Yugoslav-Albanian feud. The note said Albania: 1. "By a unilateral act . . . contrary to all fundamental principles of international law" had denounced "all economic agreements and protocols" with Yugoslavia.

2. Expelled Yugoslav trade, cultural and military experts, giving them 48 hours to leave.

3. Violated the Yugoslav-Albanian Treaty of Alliance by expelling the Yugoslav military mission.

The note said that up until June 29—three days after the Russian-led Cominform fired its blast against Yugoslavia, Albania had not made a single protest against Yugoslavia's performance under the pact's terms.

It said the economic agreements, signed in November, 1946, were drafted for a 30-year period with a provision that they could not be terminated without notice in writing at least one year in advance.

Won't Recognize Action

Yugoslavia therefore will refuse to recognize Albania's action in declaring the cultural and economic agreements "null and non-existent," the note said.

It said the "active balance" of Yugoslavia aid to Albania now amounts to 2,000,000,000 dinars ($40,000,000). This aid for Albania was aimed at correcting the "backwardness" of her economy and damage suffered in the war," the note continued.

It added that Albania had refused to furnish Yugoslavia with any guarantees for this aid and "what is more, with its procrastination and silence, endeavored to extract from Yugoslavia as many material means as possible and then slander it in the most ruthless manner, thinking it thus had rid itself of all obligation."

This note was the fourth dispatched this week by Yugoslavia to Albania, one of Soviet Russia's Balkan satellites which Yugoslavia has sought to bring into a separate bloc.

Balance In State General Revenue Fund 193 Million

Springfield, Ill., July 3.—(P)—The Illinois general revenue fund had a balance of $193,000,000 as the state began its new fiscal year.

During the month of May, the general fund increased nearly $10,000,000 over May.

Treasurer Richard Yates Rowe said the current operating period—state spending is planned on the basis of two fiscal years—ends June 30, 1949.

States tax collections during June totaled $14,216,000, an increase of $378,000 over June, 1947. The tax produced $82,780,000 in the first six months of this year, a gain of $6,000,000 over the 1947 period.

Cigarette tax proceeds amounted to $13,280,000 for the first six months compared with $11,890,000 a year ago.

Deposits in the Service Recognition Board fund for paying soldier bonuses reached $18,000,000 as of June 30, Rowe reported.

The Elephant Bird from Madagascar stood almost 10 feet tall, and weighed up to 1000 pounds.

Bulletins

St. Louis, July 3.—(P)—The production workers of the Union Electric company tonight voted down a tentative agreement between the union and the company, leaving the way open for a strike Tuesday.

In a surprise move, the members of the AFL Operating Engineers union rejected the advice of their officers, who had negotiated the agreement with the company. They also turned down their officers' request for a 16-day extension of the strike deadline.

New York, July 3.—(P)—Agreement on a new contract covering 80,000 miners in Pennsylvania's anthracite fields was reached here tonight by negotiators for the United Mine Workers and hard coal operators, her through 12 cities.

Hartley To Conduct Anti-Communist Drive

Washington, July 3.—(P)—A nation-wide investigation to expose and smash the "poison tentacles of communism" in American labor unions was announced today by Chairman Hartley (R-NJ) of the House labor committee.

The co-author of the Taft-Hartley law, who announced his retirement from the political scene last winter, told a reporter:

"I have been deeply shocked by testimony received by the committee this week on the extent of communist infiltration into key positions of union leadership in New York.

Points Grave Moral

"We know what has happened in New York. And it points a very grave moral on what could happen in Detroit, Chicago, Kansas City and other great cities.

"The moral is this: The people,

Holiday Death Toll Already Reaches 64

By The Associated Press

Sixty-four persons were killed in violent accidents as the Fourth of July holiday weekend advanced. Only one of the deaths was caused by fireworks.

A survey of accidents since 6 p.m. local time, Friday showed 51 traffic fatalities, seven drownings, one death from fireworks and five from miscellaneous reasons.

The National Safety Council, urging caution in driving, predicted that 235 persons will die in traffic accidents by the time the three-day holiday ends.

With hot and humid weather generally expected over the weekend, some 30,000 cars were expected to be on the highways, headed for lakes and vacation resorts.

Last year, accidents claimed 546 lives over the three-day Independence Day weekend. These included 264 traffic, 114 drowning, five firework, and 163 miscellaneous deaths.

Crop Expert Sees 3 Billion Bushel Corn Crop For '48

Chicago, July 3.—(P)—A corn crop of more than three billion bushels was forecast today by C. M. Galvin, crop expert for James E. Bennett and company, commission firm. It was the first private or government estimate made on the new corn crop.

Galvin said the nation should produce 3,137,000,000 bushels of corn if normal weather conditions prevail throughout the growing season. This would be the second largest crop on record, being topped only by the 3,287,927,000 bushels harvested in 1946.

Last year the nation had a short corn crop because of mid-summer drought. Only 2,447,422,000 bushels were harvested. Grain men and government officials have considered this partly responsible for lower meat and poultry production this year.

"The corn crop was planted under ideal conditions," Galvin said, "and good weather coupled with abundant moisture has been favorable to rapid plant development. Growth is generally ahead of normal, particularly so in states west of the Mississippi river."

Miss Elsie Evans Completes Summer Course At Purdue

Miss Elsie I. Evans, dean of girls at Jacksonville high school, yesterday completed her work at the fourth annual Guidance Workshop at Purdue university in Lafayette, Ind. Certificates of completion of the course were presented by Dr. B. L. Dodds, acting head of the Division of Education and Applied Psychology, to 120 men and women from 23 states.

The course, which opened June 21, was under the direction of Dr. Elizabeth K. Wilson of the Purdue sociology staff. Those attending heard discussions of special guidance problems by such outstanding authorities as Dr. Ralph R. Coffey of Kansas City, Mo., and Dr. John H. Purday, lecturer, author and world traveler. Time was also spent on supervised study of individual guidance problems.

The Giant Moa, a New Zealand bird now extinct, weighed about 500 pounds.

Iowa Delegation Could Back Ike, Chairman Says

Des Moines, July 3.—(P)—State Democratic chairman Jake More said today Iowa's "Truman delegation" to the Democratic national convention could develop considerable presidential support for General Eisenhower if Eisenhower "becomes available."

"If there should be a clear statement on Eisenhower's availability or a definite candidacy by him, considerable sentiment in the Iowa delegation might develop for him pretty fast," More said.

Although Iowa's delegation technically is uncommitted, it was selected by a state delegate convention last month which also passed a resolution declaring "President Truman must be elected."

More, a personal supporter of Mr. Truman, said that if something is "the man the people want," support could develop for him rapidly.

Iowa will have 20 votes at Philadelphia.

Brooks Challenged To Meet Douglas In Debate Series

Quincy, Ill., July 3.—(P)—Paul H. Douglas, Democratic nominee for U. S. Senator, wants to stage a revival of the Lincoln-Douglas debates of 90 years ago.

Douglas challenged his Republican opponent, Senator C. Wayne Brooks, to join him in a series of debates in the cities where Abraham Lincoln and Stephen A. Douglas wrangled.

Brooks, enroute to Quincy where he will speak tonight, was not available for comment.

The famed debates were held between August 14 and October 16, 1858, in Ottawa, Quincy, Freeport, Charleston, Jonesboro, Galesburg and Alton.

Lincoln lost in his effort to unseat the Democratic Douglas from his Senate seat, but the debates made him a national figure.

Today's Douglas, no relation of the "Little Giant," made his challenge last night in a campaign speech here.

Quincy, Ill., July 3.—(P)—Senator C. Wayne Brooks (R-Ill.) said tonight he had "nothing to say" about a challenge from his Democratic senatorial rival to a revival of the old Lincoln-Douglas debates.

Passengers Safe After Pre-Dawn Fire Razes Ship

Cape May, N.J., July 3.—(P)—The crew and captain's family all were rescued safely today after a pre-dawn fire ravaged the Swedish freighter Dagmar Salen in the Atlantic Ocean 10 miles off the Delaware coast.

The Coast Guard said there were 39 crew members aboard the ship. Only one was injured seriously enough to require hospital treatment.

The fire broke out in the engine room shortly before 4 a.m. and burned until noon before three Coast Guard cutters brought it under control.

The captain's wife, Mrs. Sigurd Lowland, her daughter, Annette, 7, and son, Sigurd-Claus, 4, were among the first to leave the burning ship in lifeboats. They were taken aboard the cutter Gentian which picked up about half the crew.

The other crew members were on the S. S. Pella, a Panamanian steamer, the first vessel to reach the Dagmar Salen after a distress signal was broadcast.

Question 6 About Murder, Beatings

Tulsa, Okla., July 3.—(P)—Six persons were held for investigation today in the fatal clubbing of an attractive divorcee and the brutal beatings of two teen-age girls and another woman.

Police Chief J. W. (Bud) Hollingsworth said a 25-year-old man was taken into custody after one of the victims regained consciousness briefly and gave a short statement to officers.

Mrs. Ruth Morton, a 42-year-old divorcee, was found dead in her apartment yesterday. She had been badly beaten about the head and her body was partly nude.

The two separate attacks occurred in buildings less than five blocks apart. Three other fatal attacks on women have occurred in the same area since 1943.

Russians Refuse To Lift Food Blockade Of Berlin

Arabs Answer Bernadotte's Peace Plan

Cairo, July 3.—(AP)—Count Folke Bernadotte, United Nations mediator for Palestine, met with Arab leaders for nearly four hours tonight, presumably to discuss the Arab league's counter-proposals to his recommendations for peace in the Holy Land.

One high Arab official predicted Palestine warfare would resume. All the Swedish count would say as he left the meeting was: "We have agreed to say nothing tonight."

Arab League sources have reported that the seven-member bloc of Moslem countries has rejected Bernadotte's proposals for ending the Arab-Jewish war.

Bernadotte said, following tonight's meeting, that he would return to his headquarters on the Greek island of Rhodes tomorrow morning.

Asked whether he would visit Tel Aviv, capital of Israel, he replied that when he reached Rhodes he expected to find a message from Tel Aviv awaiting him.

Neutral diplomatic sources in Cairo said they believed it was almost a certainty that Israel would object to some of Bernadotte's suggestions and offer a set of Jewish counter-proposals.

Aid Expenditures 58% Under Goal For First Quarter

Washington, July 3.—(P)—The Economic Cooperation Administration reported tonight that recovery shipments worth $762,747,140 have thus far been approved for Europe and China.

This figure was reached as ECA closed its books on the first three months of Marshall Plan operations. The total is about 58 per cent of the goal originally set for the quarter which ended Wednesday.

ECA Administrator Paul G. Hoffman has announced that the unspent balances will be added to each country's allotments for future quarters.

New authorizations, granted before the quarter ended but not previously made public, added $31,963,147. Austria, France, Italy and bilateral Germany, the French zone of Germany and The Netherlands, were the beneficiaries of the new approvals.

Cuts in previously announced authorizations for wheat, flour, tallow and horsemeat were announced for Austria, France, Greece, Italy and Trieste.

Guild Says Red Beliefs No Reason For Firing Writer

San Francisco, July 3.—(P)—The American Newspaper Guild (CIO) was under instruction today to go to bat for a member discharged as an admitted Communist.

A resolution approved by the convention declared it did not believe such political belief, in the absence of a showing of overt misfeasance, "constitutes just and sufficient grounds for discharge" of a newspaperman.

Delegates, at closing sessions yesterday, acted in the case of Thomas G. Buchanan. He was fired from the Washington, D. C., Star after he admitted Communist party membership. The guild's Washington local declined to protest his dismissal.

The convention, however, urged the Washington Guild to press for a hearing for Buchanan.

Several speakers declared the resolution in no way meant the ANG supported Communists or Communism.

OKLAHOMA ROBBER DECLARES TEXAN IS JESSE JAMES

Oakland, Calif., July 3.—(P)—Al Jennings, the oldtime Oklahoma train robber, was brought face to face today with a Texan who says he's Jesse James—and exclaimed "it's him!"

Jennings, who is 85, took one long look at J. Frank Dalton, or James. His voice choked and his eyes filled with tears as he turned to reporters.

"It's him," said Jennings. "That's the face. My word of honor. Boys, there ain't a bit of doubt on earth. This here is Jesse James!"

DROWNING VICTIM

Grafton, Ill., July 3.—(P)—Thomas Simpson, 78, of Grafton drowned today while bathing in the Illinois river. His body was recovered several hours later beneath some barges.

Seek Way To Prevent Mine Strike Tuesday

Washington, July 3.—(P)—Government attorneys today explored three different ways of seeking a court injunction to stop a coal strike Tuesday in the mines owned by the steel industry.

Officials said privately they probably will wait for the strike to develop before making a court move to stop it.

The steel industry has balked at giving John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers union the union shop arrangement signed by the commercial coal industry with Lewis. Steel contends that the union shop, as Lewis wants it, violates the Taft-Hartley labor act.

A strike of almost 40,000 diggers for the "captive" would curtail steel production. Coal supplies are still short from last spring's six-week miners' pension strike. It is doubtful that the steel industry can buy enough coal elsewhere to fill its needs.

These are the three avenues open for government action to stop a strike:

1. A plea to the courts by Robert N. Denham, general counsel of the National Labor Relations Board—but only after he investigates and issues a formal complaint on the steel industry's charges that Lewis is violating the Taft-Hartley act by insisting on the union shop provision.

2. White House seizure of the "captive" mines under the new draft law, because of the effect of a further steel shortage on defense production. As government employees under seizure miners could be barred by the courts from striking.

3. Use of the Taft-Hartley procedures for "national emergencies." This requires a finding that the nation's health or safety is imperiled and an investigation by a fact-finding board, before a court injunction can be asked.

Independence Day Ceremonies Open At Washington

Washington, July 3.—(P)—President Truman said today the United States, the "most powerful nation in the world," still has only one ambition—"peace in the world and the welfare of the world as a whole."

He re-stated the country's aims in an informal address on the 100th anniversary of the laying of the cornerstone of the Washington monument.

Mr. Truman told his audience on the monuments grounds that we have fought two tremendous wars for freedom and liberty in the world; that we have no territorial ambitions and seek no reparations.

At the end of the last war, the President added:

"We only asked for peace with justice in the world, and we asked that the United Nations be made to work for that purpose."

"We have spent all the time since the war in endeavoring to do just that."

In introducing President Truman, Secretary of State George C. Marshall described the 55-foot Washington monument as an enduring symbol of American principles of "liberty, justice, union and above all, government dedicated to the services of the governed."

21 Workers Hurt As Explosion, Fire Wreck Steel Plant

Chicago, July 3.—(P)—An estimated 40 per cent of the productive capacity at the huge Carnegie-Illinois Steel company was knocked out today by an explosion and fire that injured 21 workers, four seriously.

Police commissioner Michael J. Corrihan estimated damage at "near a million dollars."

Chief Ray Crane of the uniformed police said he had a report that two bodies were buried in the debris. Rescue workers on the scene, however, said they knew of no fatalities.

The south side steel plant, second largest in the nation, is a subsidiary of U. S. Steel. It produces 4,500,000 tons of steel a year.

The blast wrecked a large engine house that pumps air to five of the company's 10 blast furnaces. It blew out part of the roof of the three-story building, showered debris for hundreds of yards, twisted heavy steel girders and smashed windows in adjoining buildings.

Company officials said cause of the explosion had not been determined immediately. They made no estimate on how long repairs would require. The five furnaces affected will be banked, they said.

Irving Berlin's Daughter Weds

New York, July 3.—(P)—Mary Ellen Berlin, eldest daughter of songwriter Irving Berlin, was married today to Dennis S. Burden at the home of her parents here.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. George B. Ford, of the Corpus Christi Roman Catholic church, New York City. Rabbi Morris Lazaron, a friend of the Berlin family, gave the couple his blessing.

The bride has been studying at Barnard College. Her mother is the former Ellen Mackay, daughter of the late Clarence H. Mackay, chairman of the Postal Telegraph and Cable Co.

FIREWORKS CASUALTY

New York, July 3.—(P)—The police department, which has warned the populace about holiday fireworks, today reported the city's first fireworks casualty—a policeman.

Patrolman Emilio Antonelli, 47, suffered leg burns when a prankster tossed a lighted firecracker through a station house window.

U. S. Fliers Will Forego Their Holiday

Berlin, July 3.—(AP)—The Russians refused today to say they would lift their Berlin food blockade and Allied airmen prepared to give up their Fourth of July holiday to continue the flying breadline.

An American spokesman announced that Marshal Vasily D. Sokolovsky, Soviet commander, met with U. S. British and French military commanders for 30 minutes. The spokesman said Sokolovsky refused to give any assurances about raising the blockade. The meeting was in answer to a letter by British military governor Gen. Sir Brian Robertson, asking that a date be set for removing the blockade.

Supplies Stream In

As the top officials met, airborne supplies streamed into Berlin, and after the fruitless meeting with Sokolovsky, Gen. Lucius D. Clay, the American military governor, announced the air lift will continue and be increased.

Clay added he thought the French would take part in the emergency air freight service to feed the 2,000,000 residents of Berlin's western sectors, and that they "would contribute what they could."

Those representing the western Allies at the meeting, held in Sokolovsky's Babelsburg Villa on the outskirts of Berlin, were Clay, Robertson, and Gen. Roger Noiret, deputy French military governor.

Becoming Serious Matter

The American spokesman said the three went to Sokolovsky to tell him the two-week blockade of western Berlin was becoming a serious matter and they wanted some assurance that "technical difficulties" to rail traffic would be overcome. The Russians said "technical difficulties" caused the ban of rail traffic at the start of the blockade.

"We were able to obtain no assurances and the meeting was adjourned," the spokesman said.

"The situation remains unchanged."

Anti-Trumanites Keep Eisenhower Banners Waving

By The Associated Press

Democrats stoked the Graft-Eisenhower fire into a roaring blaze last (Saturday) night.

But whether they could thaw the freeze the retired army chief of staff has put on talk of his public office was something else.

They will make a try in Philadelphia next Saturday, just ahead of the party convention, in a caucus of opponents of the nomination of President Truman. That meeting was arranged by James Roosevelt, California state chairman.

Pepper Joins Movement

The heat gauge went up another notch Saturday night with an announcement from Senator Pepper of Florida that he will be at the caucus working for an Eisenhower nomination and will attend the convention itself as an alternate delegate.

Pepper, one of the Senate's more ardent new dealers, has been very long away from the president for months, but had not come out nearly so flatly before.

One of the catches in the maneuvering was indicated by Harry Carlson, New Hampshire Democratic national committee man. He said he was "more interested" in learning whether the general would serve if elected than in whether he would accept a nomination.

And Carlson said that even after a conference with Eisenhower last week, all he had was an "opinion" on whether Eisenhower was available.

Believe He'll Accept

Reporting talks with the general last week by himself and four other national committeemen, Carlson said their consensus was that Eisenhower "would accept an honest draft."

None of the five asked him the direct question, Carlson said. He stated his personal belief that the general should allow himself to be nominated.

Eisenhower himself, secure behind the ivy of Columbia University of which he now is president, was silent, but an aide reemphasized his statement earlier in the year that he was not "available." That statement was made in connection with a Republican nomination movement.

Finland's Reds Lose Elections

Helsinki, Finland, July 3.—(P)—Finland's communists have suffered a decisive setback, and the country appears headed for a course more nearly in the middle of the road as a result of parliamentary elections Thursday and Friday.

With returns nearly complete, results tonight showed the Agrarian center party had scored a strong victory, that the Social Democrats had run second and that the communist-dominated Popular Democrats had come in third after holding first place in number of parliamentary seats since 1945.

Mexicans Search For Missing DC-3

Mexico City, July 3.—(P)—Commercial and army fliers were searching today for a missing plane carrying 14 employees of the joint United States-Mexico commission fighting foot-and-mouth disease in cattle.

The commission plane, a two-motored DC-3, left Minatitlan, Veracruz state, yesterday afternoon enroute to Veracruz and Mexico city on a routine flight. It did not reach Veracruz.

THINGS THAT MAKE AMERICA ARE STILL WORTH HOLDING ONTO

One hundred and seventy-two years ago the representatives of 13 poor, weak little colonies on the Atlantic seaboard took a fateful step. With hearts in mouths, "with firm reliance upon the protection of Divine Providence," they defied the greatest economic and military power of their day, and solemnly proclaimed their independence from Great Britain.

We of the present generation have grown to adulthood as citizens of the greatest financial and industrial power of all times. For the long haul, we suspect maybe we are also the greatest military power in world history. Right now we are the hope of western civilization for survival. Only our materials, our productivity, our wealth can save Europe from being pulled by communism back into the dark ages.

We have a right to be proud. This country has come a long way since 1776—so far that sometimes it is hard for us to realize the guts it really took for our forefathers to defy Great Britain and make good that defiance.

But in these days isolationism and selfishness are fighting a rear-guard battle against the progress of enlightenment. Economic and political reaction are fighting a rear-guard action against progressive liberalism. And it is a good time to remember that it was not just the sons of the American Revolution that made this the world's greatest nation.

Run through Who's Who, any directory of leaders in any business or profession, and you'll find that the bulk of the names never were on the Mayflower's passenger list, or for that matter on the rosters of George Washington's threadbare armies.

We have become the world's savior, civilization's hope, because within our borders immigrants and the sons of immigrants from every hamlet in the world have worked together toward those ends.

Our nation has offered freedom, democracy, opportunity. We can't yet say truthfully that we have offered them without regard for race, creed or color. The spirit of the founding fathers' "all men are created free and equal," but we have gone further in that direction than any other nation has. And we have become greater than any other nation has.

Maybe that's only coincidence. But when things are coming our way is a good time to push our luck. Freedom—democracy—equality of opportunity. They're all our revolutionary forefathers asked in 1776. They're worth hanging onto today, and extending.

TITO'S REBELLION OFFERS FAINT HOPE FOR CHECKING KREMLIN

The recent crisis in Yugoslav politics suggests that Marshal Tito made two mistakes. He apparently forgot that while the Soviet dictatorship is fanatically nationalistic, the puppets are not allowed to follow suit. The satellites move in their prescribed orbits, and any attempt to change them invites trouble.

Tito also seems to have forgotten that an attitude of "Let them eat communism" is no more realistic or successful than Marie Antoinette's "Let them eat cake."

The Yugoslav dictator was trained in a ruthless school, and once he attained power he put his training to use in trying to cram communism down his country's throat. But the Yugoslav peasants didn't lie down and play dead. They had enjoyed a little more freedom than their Russian neighbors were used to before the revolution.

So when Tito failed to deliver goods as well as promises, the small farmers retaliated by hoarding food. This led to hard times and a loss in popularity for a system that never was too popular in the first place.

Then Tito apparently decided on such drastic measures as a show of independence, an appeal to national pride, and a slight modification of hostility toward the west. This didn't square with Soviet policy and "pure Communist precept." So Tito got his ears pinned back.

Probably one should go a little slowly in thinking that this heralds a split in the Soviet bloc. The scene of the present crisis is outside the Soviet borders, but it is still within the Communist Party. There is nothing new about disagreement and rebellion within the party, or about purges to whip the boys back into line.

The result of the present situation will probably be the same. Whether Tito or someone else is chosen to sit in Belgrade and take orders from Moscow, he will toe the line or find himself in a serious jam. And he will be hostile to the west just as long as Moscow is hostile.

At the same time, the root of the trouble in Yugoslavia may mean that Stalin will run into an increasing amount of difficulty if he continues his imperialistic course. For nationalism, which can be a curse under certain conditions, can also be a force for good.

The Soviet government will not have to look farther back in history than Hitler's Third Reich for the tribulations of a dictator who tries to subjugate a people who can't and won't be assimilated.

The Yugoslavs probably would not fight the Russians with guns, as they did the Nazis. But their crafty disobedience might serve as an example for anti-Communists in other countries of the Soviet bloc. Any widespread lack of cooperation seems a remote possibility now, for the Soviet police system is thorough and cruel, and the risk of disobedience are great.

But the underlying reasons for Tito's rebellion, with some other recent setbacks for Soviet world ambitions, offer at least faint hope that the men in the Kremlin will some day find their hands so full that they will not be able to reach out and grab for more.

Dunlap Court at W. State St. Phone 1854

The thrill-packed Soap Box Derby attracts spectators from all walks of life, young and old, all of whom regard the "greatest amateur racing event in the world" as one of the highlights of the summer. These boys were caught sticking their necks out to get the best possible view of their favorites in the championship Derby at Akron last year.

Soap Box Derby Here Has Come A Long Way Since Its Beginning

Fans of the Soap Box Derby in Jacksonville have been amazed at the changes which have taken place during the years.

The first Derby, or probably the first, was held between West College avenue and West Beecher on Dunlap court. That historic event attracted such little attention that it was not even noted in the Journal Courier.

It will best be remembered because of the thrill packed turns on West Beecher avenue when the boys tried to turn their cars "on a dime." The choice was to crash into a Beecher avenue yard.

There wasn't much of a crowd at that Derby. Many of the home-made cars broke in two when they hit the pavement from the starting ramp. The winner of the event is lost to history. But that was the beginning, and like the beginning of many great things, it was modest.

The first Derby which attracted the attention of the community was run August 31, 1939. A Soap Box Derby it was not. It was an Exchange Derby, sponsored by the Jacksonville Exchange club. There was little to distinguish it from its successor, the Soap Box Derby.

The contestants were divided into class "A" and "B," probably on the basis of age. That was the year that Paul May won class "A," defeating Harold McDougall in the finals, and not Jack Cole as previously stated in this paper. Jack Cole was victor in class "B."

Course Changed
The course had been moved from the perilous Diamond court speed-way but still had not found its permanent abode. It ran from City Place to Lockwood and it must have been a honey because the Courier of that year reports that "many racers were severely damaged, though fortunately none of the boys were hurt."

The end of the thirties brought with it the beginning of the official Soap Box Derby in Jacksonville sponsored by the Corn Belt Chevrolet company and the Jacksonville Journal Courier.

This was the year that the course was from Tanner Library on West College to Prospect. The course remained the same from then on. Because of state legislation, it must be changed this year. Derby officials report that the new course will probably be situated on Grove, and the starting ramp will be at the intersection of Park and Grove.

Bad Luck At Finals
In 1940 Harlan Lee Williamson defeated David Knight. Williamson was the first Jacksonville boy to represent the city at Akron. He was defeated in the first round there, a fate which has plagued every Jacksonville representative at the big race.

Jacksonville boys have had consistently bad luck in this respect. Last year, for example, Crawford's heat at Akron turned out to be one of the fastest of the year. It was even better time than the winning race. The jinx is ready to break, and all of Jacksonville feels certain that 1948 will see it end.

Forty-four contestants battled it out in 1941. Jimmie Woods dazzled the crowd in a red, white, and blue car which cost him $9.50 to make. Woods could not have known at the time the appropriateness of the colors. Woods himself was soon to be wearing navy blue. Soap Box Derbies became a memory of the pre-war years along with rubber tires, non-rationed meat, and full tanks of pleasure gasoline.

North Side vs. South
1941 produced the seemingly endless argument as to whether the north or south side of College avenue was the best. Racers became insistent that their rights be upheld, and it looked as if there might be validity to their admonitions to stay away from the south side. For that year 35 men won from the north side and only 20 from the south. Fortunately, five years later, history reversed itself, and more won from the south than the north. Last year, the victories from each side were pretty well divided.

"The Great War put a stop to the Soap Box Derby, and it was not until the summer of 1946 that crowds once again lined West College to cheer their favorites. Dope-

American Legion Membership In State 220,000

William G. Burns, department senior vice commander of the American Legion and membership chairman of the Department of Illinois, announced today that the state Legion membership has reached the 220,000 mark, highest in Illinois Legion history at this date.

Burns said that the present objective of the Illinois Legionnaires is to attain the 1947 total membership figure, 225,845 by July 18. On that date a special program will pay tribute to Department Commander Douglass D. Getchell in the state Legion chief's home town of Grayslake.

"Getchell Day, July 18, will be celebrated by the largest Legion membership in the record books," Burns said. He urged every post commander of Illinois' 1,128 Legions to send in all newly acquired Legion membership cards to the state headquarters office prior to that date in order that they might be counted for the Getchell Day program.

Illinois ranks third in Legion membership in the United States, paced only by Pennsylvania and New York.

Thousand Kids Attend Jubilee Show At Theatre

Over one thousand excited kids crowded into the Illinois theatre Saturday morning at 9:30 a. m. to watch the All American Jubilee Show, sponsored by the Elks.

The candy, ice cream, popcorn, and soda pop business was rushing, theatre officials stated, as children of all ages came in to begin the Jacksonville celebration of Independence Day.

The Jubilee Show is becoming nationwide. It was originated last year to bring to the children of America the real meaning of the Fourth of July, and to show to them in vivid terms that it is more than the day when fireworks are exploded.

There was no admission to the show. Tickets were printed in the Journal Courier. However, no child was denied admission for the lack of a ticket.

In addition to the feature attraction, "Buffalo Bill Rides Again," a number of short subjects and a featurette rounded out the program. The Amvets furnished the color guard at a stage ceremony.

All persons who attended the show received a painting of the signing of the Declaration of Independence as a souvenir. The original of this painting hangs in Independence Hall in Philadelphia.

The show ran for approximately two and one-half hours.

Miss Betty Lou Birdsell Becomes Bride Of Richard A. Lockett

White gladioli, ferns, palms and lighted tapers flanked the mantle in the living room of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry A. Birdsell, 240 Pine street, for the beautiful summer wedding ceremony in which their daughter, Betty Lou, became the bride of Richard A. Lockett. The afternoon service was performed on Sunday, June 27. The Rev. Roy S. Hulan, pastor of Central Christian church, received the marriage vows.

Piano music was played before the ceremony by Miss Martha Williamson, who also played the traditional marches, "George Fox, classmate of the bride, sang "O Promise Me" and "Because."

Candles were lighted by Miss Mary Lou White, who was attired in a gown of pale blue and white shasta daisies. Miss Mary Jean Brannan of Virginia, flower girl, wore a white organdy dress, caught up at the hemline with tiny rosebuds.

Dawn pink net fashioned the gown worn by Miss Jeanne Brown, maid of honor. Her dress was made with ruffled bodice, short sleeves and full skirt. A veil of dawn pink illusion and matching long gloves completed her costume. She carried a nosegay of pink carnations with pale blue and white shasta daisies.

The bride descended the stairway and was met and escorted by her father, who gave her in marriage. Of white slipper satin, her gown featured a portrait neckline, marquisette yoke and bertha of French lace. The long sleeves and bodice were fitted, and the full skirt was edged in matching lace.

A halo of orange blossoms caught the fingertip veil worn by the bride, who carried a white leather Bible topped with a single white orchid. Her only jewelry was a double strand of pearls.

David Sinclair of Virginia served as best man. Three tiered wedding cake, topped with a pair of white doves, each holding a wedding ring, centered the bride's table. White flowers were used throughout the Birdsall home where the reception was held.

Miss Shirley Fry assisted in serving the cake, and Mrs. W. D. Lamson of Wisconsin, aunt of the bride, presided at the punch bowl.

The Ozark region is the destination of the couple, who left after the reception for their wedding trip. For traveling Mrs. Lockett wore a brown and white suit of stonecutter's cord, with white accessories and an orchid corsage.

Mrs. Lockett is a graduate of Jacksonville high school, class of 1948, and a member of Nu Phi Mu sorority. Her husband was graduated from Virginia high school and is attending a school of Mortuary Science in St. Louis, where they will reside on West Pine Blvd.

 Too many people, perhaps, feel that the fight against inflation is the Government's job. Actually, this battle is like any other: it will be won—or lost!—by the privates, not by the generals.

REV. R. E. ELLISON

The First Baptist church at White Hall will hold its annual homecoming on Sunday, July 4, this year commemorating the 25th anniversary of the completion of the remodeling of the present church edifice.

Communion services will be held during the morning worship hour, and a basket dinner will be served at noon. The Rev. L. E. Ellison, pastor of the church at the time the building was being remodeled, will be the principal speaker at the evening service.

Student Health Fund
Plans To Raise $5000
For School Children

A drive to raise a base fund of $5,000 from which to make loans to parents of school children of Jacksonville, will soon get in full swing. The Student Health Fund, headed by Dr. E. C. Bone, 268 Webster avenue, has an extensive program mapped out to implement the overall plan.

The purpose of the fund is to make loans to the parents of school children of the Jacksonville community for needed hospital, medical, and dental care. There will be no interest charged and the only security the borrower needs is his promise to repay the loan within a maximum of two years.

The Student Health Fund includes representatives from all Jacksonville Parent-Teacher organizations, Lutheran and Catholic parochial schools, and the South Jacksonville Parent-Teacher Association. Four members-at-large will also be on the fund.

Officers are Dr. Bone, president; Mrs. John T. Taylor, vice-president; Mrs. Donald McDermott, secretary; and Robert E. Spink, treasurer.

Credit Committee

A credit committee composed of J. Shanahan, H. Dowland, and Mrs. H. E. Hills will pass on all loans under two hundred dollars. All loans which exceed that sum will be referred to the executive board.

The Student Health Fund grew out of the work of the health chairman of the Parent-Teachers Associations in Jacksonville. Illinois law requires that each school child have three examinations in the course of his grade school education. The health chairman discovered that only 50% of the defects discovered were remedied by the parents.

To Increase Remedial Work

One of the objectives of this Student Health Fund, said Mrs. McDermott, is to increase the remedial work. She went on to say that health certificates would be awarded to each child who had defects corrected.

The Student Health Fund already has $300, a gift of the American Association of University Women. They raised the fund at a series of movies last winter and spring.

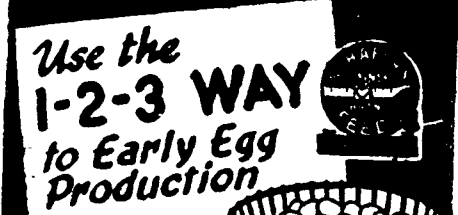

A more detailed program of the work of this fund will be announced at a later date.

CORRECTION

Mrs. Gotschell was quoted in connection with the recent death of Michael Looker that "the child had pulled a small green wagon across the track with it." Mrs. Gotschell states that she never saw the child until it was picked up by one of the trainmen and that she did not see it cross the track.

Retail Stores In Jacksonville To Close Monday

Motor trips and the facilities at Nichols Park are expected to provide the main recreation for local citizens as the city began celebrating its second holiday weekend in the past three months today.

The big three-day Independence Day celebration at Nichols Park ball diamond which gets underway this evening is expected to draw huge crowds. For baseball enthusiasts, the Cardinal-Cub twin bill at St. Louis on Monday should prove a choice item on the post-July 4 entertainment bill of fare.

All stores that close in Jacksonville on Sunday will do likewise Monday. The post office will remain closed with the exception of special deliveries and mail pickups.

Those planning to take to the highways over the weekend will do well to heed the somber prediction of the Chicago Motor Club that 30 persons will die and 1,140 more will be injured on Illinois highways during the weekend.

To reduce the probability that one family in 65 touring the highways will have its holiday marred by a traffic accident and one in every 500 will suffer a traffic fatality, the Chicago Motor Club recommends a three-point program:

Avoid Fatigue
(1) Schedule trips so as to avoid fatigue, night-driving, or the necessity of fast driving. Two thirds of all fatal accidents occur at night. Excessive fatigue and high driving speeds invite fatalities.

(2) Increase the margin of driving error, especially distance allowances in passing or following cars, and control of speeds at intersections, railroad crossings, bridge approaches and other hazardous points.

(3) Condition the car for holiday driving, double checking all safety equipment, particularly brakes, windshield wipers, lights, and tires.

NEWS OF ILLINI GIRLS' STATE WRITTEN BY ITS EDITORIAL STAFF

My Experiences At Girls Nation

Ruth Ann Clanton
1947 Lieutenant Governor, Illini Girls State

The election at Girls' Nation was exciting, and the campaigning was fun for the girls. There was a very serious side to the election, however, which was expressed in the platform of the two parties.

The Nationalists adopted a five-point plan for world peace and understanding. They went on record as being in favor of:

1. A Girls' Nation selected to work with the National Auxiliary committee for the furthering and bettering of Girls' Nation.
2. A list to be compiled of resolutions that Girls' Nation pass, and to be presented to the Federal Government to give it an idea of what the youth of America thinks of national affairs.
3. Indorsement of UNESCO and a recommendation to the State Department that they select a girl from Girls' Nation to be appointed on the National Commission of 100.
4. Indorsement of the Federal Education Bill which provides for a Federal investigation of each state to determine its educational needs.
5. Foreign exchange of students.

The platform of the Federalist Party was a combination of four democracies — political, economic, social, and Girls' Nation. The provisions which come under these sections are as follows:

1. Election of Representatives to serve for four years to increase the efficiency of the House.
2. The building of an institution for the education of government officials, officers, and diplomats.
3. The clearing of the slum districts and the building of decent homes.
4. Money for education and the raising of teacher's salaries.
5. Appropriations for standardized education in the United States.
6. Passage of a bill by which an alumnae association of Girls' Nation will hold a reunion every five years, and officers will be formed.

7. Required United Nations education.

8. Higher salaries for Congressmen and diplomats.

Thus did the Girls' Nationers show their understanding of some of the questions and the problems our country faces. This was the first Girls' Nation and they did their part in helping to establish it. Now it is the privilege and duty of girls who are sent to future Girls' Nation to improve it and make it an important part of the political education for the young girls of our country. It is well to remember that such a session as Girls' Nation could not be held anywhere but in the United States.

Susie Seeker Claims She's Not A Sew-And-Sew

By Wilma North

"You're nothing but a sew-and-sew!" Can you believe it? That's what they tell me—me, Susie Seeker. It's not true, either. I'm not a sew-and-sew; I'm a dress-maker. Of course, I make other clothes, too, but principally I'm a dress-maker. I can make beautiful pajamas. I put frogs down the front, but the frogs get excited and croak. After that I lay them down to rest. It's very, very sad.

Once I tried to featherstitch some binding on a blanket, but what with stopping to laugh all the time—I'm very ticklish—I didn't get much accomplished.

More Fun!

I have the most fun making dresses. I buy a pattern which naturally does not fit me. I take it in and let it out, take it in and let it out, till we are both worn threadbare.

While I turn my back and am busily sewing a hem, the pins try a stick-up. Indeed, they almost get away with the goods. Luckily they are stopped by the yardstick which insists upon ruling things his way.

The needles point out that I'm going at the whole thing with the wrong attitude. So I revise my ideas and start again. Several remarks of the scissors cut me to the quick. I continue to sew, nevertheless.

Tain't Fair!

The bias tape is so opinionated that I can hardly bear to work with it, but in the interest of art, I restrain myself. Even the safety device me—for safety's sake—so I have to put things together as best I can. The chalk draws the line at that and leaves me to my woe. While I am struggling, the thread gets all wound up in itself, and even the elastic stretches things a bit.

When I'm ready to fasten a neckline, I can't find the little box of hooks. Before long, however, I discover that the eyes have it. Although I try to stop it from any such foolishness, the lace is soon edging around the collar to get away from me. The stalwart pleats square off for a good fight, but nothing much comes of it.

Every day I work diligently on improving my sewing. Why, some day I'll probably be the most famous dress-maker in the world—if not the most infamous.

Mosses are essential to many higher plants, conserving moisture and preventing erosion.

GIRLS' STATE GOVERNOR

PAULINE CORDER

Miss Corder is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Corder of Quincy.

My Unforgettable Character—Aunt Mary

By Marilyn Stroh

I must have been the important age of ten when Uncle Hermann, on one of his semi-annual visits, introduced me to his bride. She was pretty and she was kind, but perhaps I liked her mainly because her name was Mary.

She was charming, too, and won my heart by saying, "I know what you did. It's in the paper." (Aunt Mary I knew, was referring to the local weekly.) Oh, I was proud—very proud, to be truthful—to know that I had made the Journal. But for the life of me I could not imagine why my name was in print.

She Was Wonderful

So she told me, "Why, you went to school for two months without missing." I then recalled the ego-inflating and space-consuming articles listing the names of grade school children who were neither tardy nor late.

Then she said, "I wish you lived in La Crosse. You'd be in my class." Aunt Mary taught the fourth and fifth grades in a public school.

She was simply wonderful!

Then Aunt Mary and Uncle Hermann moved to Decatur. Visits were few, but there were vacation postcards, Christmas gifts, and even a make-a-valentine set when the measles kept me in bed. And there were letters—thrilling letters, loving letters, charming letters.

Hoped for Girl

One of those letters announced the intended arrival of a new cousin. I hoped it would be a little girl—a girl who would have black hair and sparkling eyes just like her mother's.

It was a little girl. I saw her and Aunt Mary together only once, but they lay with their eyes closed. No one could ever see their sparkling resemblance.

That was my first encounter with death.

I was sad. But time and a childish faith dried my tears. For I became convinced that God loved Aunt Mary even more than I, and that He needed her to care for his ten-year-old angels.

SCHIER BROTHERS
WHITE HALL, ILL.

The following Editorial, "Communism Here," appeared in the Illinois State Journal and Register on Sunday, June 27, 1948. The fact that the Editorial explains in detail the workings of Communism, I deem it of vital importance that the Editorial be printed in every newspaper in the United States.

Attorney Robert E. Harmon

COMMUNISM HERE

One of the startling contributions of the 80th Congress to the people of the nation is a symposium of slave terms which Communists aim to fasten upon the United States. The summary was deduced from official hearings, all authoritative, all under oath.

Communists plan, first to subvert our Republic, by force, and blood revolution if necessary. That accomplished, Washington will cease to be the national capital. Moscow will take its place.

Every man, woman and child will be assigned to a specific task. Individual choice of work will vanish. Labor unions will be abolished, except as they reflect Communist control, under which all adults and many children will be told where to work, and under what conditions.

The only schools that will be permitted will be those that teach the tenets of Communism. Membership in fraternal and patriotic societies will be prohibited. No one will be permitted to own a home, a farm or any other property. Insurance and bank accounts will be taken over by the politburo and placed at the disposal of the Kremlin. The right to bequeath or inherit property will be abolished. Freedom to worship God, as Americans know and exercise that freedom, will be taken away.

Political parties will be dissolved and only the Communist party will function. The right to travel freely over the country will be done away with. No one will be permitted to start a business, except under special dispensation; and even then, Communist police will direct its operation. All mail will be censored, and if a letter offends the politburo, the offender will be punished, probably liquidated. Wholesale slaughter of all who ever professed pride in America will be decreed and there will be no national banner, except the red flag of the hammer and sickle. The official anthem won't be "Star Spangled Banner," but will be "The Internationale" instead.

Everyone 17 or over will be compelled to join the Communist party and be active in its enterprises. All will pay dues, levied on earnings, produce or hard labor. All directives of Communist party heads will be carried out with dispatch. Members will be trained in spying, sabotage, passport fraud, perjury, counterfeiting, rioting and disloyalty to every interest except the Kremlin. Official Communist publications will take the place of America's present newspapers, magazines and periodicals.

Confusion will be confounded with chaos in the early stages of the take-over period, after which government by law will disappear. Ukase from Moscow will replace statute. The Constitution, Declaration of Independence and every other document hallowed by Americans will be destroyed.

These are some of the impositions scheduled for Americans if, as or when Communism gains domination. To people who take freedom for granted, the terms may seem as fantastic as an eerie incubus. They seemed that way to satellite nations of Russia, until the Communist brutality began to throw its weight around.

The core of Communism is the lust for power. It doesn't respect human nature, doesn't recognize that individuals have rights. It presumes that life, liberty and property are chattels.

The plot is complete and the country, Jacksonville included, has been zoned for confiscation. Commissioners have been tentatively appointed for many communities.

The American people can prevent the seizure and escape the agony, but not if they sleep. Over 175,000,000 Russians watched with unbelieving, anaesthetized indifference, in 1917, while fewer than 3,000,000 ruthless, but organized Communist ruffians sacked weapons and other means of defense, then at gun point herded them into abject submission.

Merchants And KC Share League Lead In City Softball

St. Louis, July 3—(P)—With Eddie Robinson hitting a home run and a triple and Bob Feller keeping Browne batters under control, the Cleveland Indians held their own in the American League race today defeating St. Louis 8 to 2.

Robinson opened the scoring in the second with his circuit blow while no one was on base and player-manager Lou Boudreau duplicated the trick in the third.

But it was in the fifth frame that Robinson clinched the game, slamming the ball into right field to score Hank Edwards and Boudreau.

Yankees Win

New York, July 3—(P)—Coming from behind with a four-run rally in the eighth inning, the New York Yankees today defeated Washington 5-3 to walk to the series at one victory apiece.

A walk to George McQuinn to start off the last of the eighth got Sid Hudson in trouble. Yogi Berra followed with a single. Joe DiMaggio doubled McQuinn home and Warren, Billy Johnson singled in the tying and winning runs. Hudson bowed out in favor of Earl Harris. It was his seventh defeat. He has won three.

A's Troupe Boston

Boston, July 3—(P)—With sore-armed Dick Fowler keeping seven hits scattered, the hard-driving Philadelphia Athletics reeled off their 10th win in 11 starts by trouncing the Boston Red Sox today, 8-2.

While notching his sixth win against one defeat, Fowler forced in Ted Williams with the first Boston run in the fourth. He gave them another in the ninth when Bill Goodman connected safely for his 11th straight game. Birdie Tebbetts also singled and two Soxos lashed long flies.

The Athletics collected all 11 of their hits and six of their runs before Starter "Boo" Ferriss was replaced by Lefty Maurice McDermott in the ninth.

Eddie Joost started Ferriss' downfall by doubling in Pete Suder and Fowler in the second inning. The Athletics then collected four more counts in the eighth on four hits, among which were two bangers by Ray Coleman and Buddy Rosar, a sacrifice and a base on balls.

McDermott gave five passes, thereby forcing in the last two enemy tallies, before Harry Doran rushed in and ended the one-sided contest by making Suder pop out with the bases still jammed.

Chicago, July 3—(P)—All quotations on the livestock market were nominally steady today. The market will be closed for trading Monday, although any animals on hand will be quartered and fed for re-opening of trading Tuesday.

During the week heavy weight butchers hogs and sows dropped as much as $1.50, but butchers weighing less than 350 pounds brought steady to 50 cents higher prices.

Most sections of the cattle market declined during the week, although some choice fed heifers reached $38.25, an all-time high for heifers, during the early part of the week. Best grade steers and yearlings slumped 25 to 50 cents while average grades dropped 50 cents to $1.

Spring lambs, jumped $2 to $2.50 for the week, largely because of small arrivals. Most of the gain was made in the early part of the week. Old crop short lambs and yearlings were steady to 50 cents higher.

Chicago, July 3—(P)—Corn prices tumbled on the board of trade today as splendid weather spread over the Midwest and a private forecast of a crop of more than three billion bushels was made.

At their extreme lows, corn prices were down as much as 7 cents, sharpest decline for any day in several months. The July and September contracts recorded widest losses. This was based on expectations of increased shipments to market in view of the improved new crop outlook.

The break in corn had some influence on other grains, but they did not fall as much as the yellow cereal. Wheat was off more than a cent at times, but encouraged some buying as it approached the government loan level for cash wheat in this market. Oats were down around 2 cents at the lows.

The government loan here is $2.29 a bushel for No. 1 hard wheat, which sells at a premium of a cent over No. 2 hard wheat. The latter grade is deliverable on futures contracts, which makes the theoretical "floor" for futures $2.28. However, there is nothing to prevent futures from selling below that point.

Wheat closed 1 1/2 to 2 cents lower, July $2.28, corn 2 to 6 lower, July $2.12-1.3, oats were 1 to 2 cents lower, July 87-88, and soybeans were 11-13 lower, July $4.07.

Preliminary estimated receipts of grain in cars here today: wheat, 29; corn 84; oats 13; rye none; barley 22 and soybeans 15.

Chicago, July 3—(P)—Wheat No. 2 red tough 2.29; Corn No. 1 yellow, 2.23-2.54; No. 2, 2.20-2.31; No. 3, 2.18; No. 4, 2.20; No. 5, 2.13; sample grade 1.95; Oats No. 2 mixed 94; No. 2 white, 97; No. 1 heavy special red 1.00.

Leaders Seem Secure In All Star Race

Barring an unforeseen last minute rush of votes, players now leading the Journal Courier All Star baseball poll can be considered "in."

Heavy vote

Heavy balloting Saturday cleared up the last of what had been close races and it will take a concentrated drive to change any of the local leaders before the Monday noon voting deadline. Changes are possible, but unlikely.

All votes cast here are forwarded to the Chicago Tribune, which collects results nationally.

Fans in the Journal Courier area have shown a preference for several teams. In the National league, St. Louis has apparently landed three players, Chicago and New York two each and Boston one. In the junior circuit, New York and Cleveland lead with two each, while Philadelphia, Boston, New York and St. Louis have one each at the top.

Local leaders for each position:

National League

Catcher—Cooper, New York, 72; Scheffing, Chicago, 54; Rice, St. Louis, 17.

First base—Mize, New York, 84; Waitkus, Chicago, 65; Jones, St. Louis, 14.

Second base—Stanky, Boston, 82; Schoendienst, St. Louis, 61; Rigney, New York, 9.

Third base—Pafko, Chicago, 76; Gustine, Pittsburgh, 55; Elliott, Boston, 29.

Shortstop—Marion, St. Louis, 101; Reese, Brooklyn, 52; Miller, Philadelphia, 6.

Left field—Musial, St. Louis, 101; Kiner, Pittsburgh, 55; Sauer, Cincinnati, 7.

Center field—Jeffcoat, Chicago, 72; Ashburn, Philadelphia, 51; Furlow, Brooklyn, 17.

Right field—Slaughter, St. Louis, 81; Holmes, Boston, 51; Musial, St. Louis, 14.

American League

Catcher—Rosar, Philadelphia, 95; Berra, New York, 19; Tebbetts, Boston, 17.

First base—McQuinn, New York, 67; Vernon, Washington, 30; Stevens, St. Louis, 26.

Second base—Gordon, Cleveland, 60; Doerr, Boston, 49; Priddy, St. Louis, 27.

Third base—Kell, Detroit, 60; Dillinger, St. Louis, 37; Keltner, Cleveland, 34.

UNFINISHED WORK

Not one of Michelangelo's statues is completely finished, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica, because the sculptor was impatient, impetuous, and usually attacked the block of marble without sufficient preparation.

Mosses may look like tiny evergreen trees, roses, ostrich plumes or any of hundreds of bizarre shapes.

Chicago, July 3—(P)—Red Schoendienst of the St. Louis Cardinals moved ahead of Boston's Eddie Stanky Saturday in the race for second base starting assignment of the National league in the 15th annual all-star game in St. Louis July 13.

The fans voted Schoendienst back on top with 874,118 returns in the nation wide poll. Stanky dropped to second with 862,964 and Bill Rigney of the New York Giants remained in third with 613,477.

The national total vote has reached a record-shattering 3,235,198 and may come close to the four million mark before the poll closes at midnight Monday. Final returns will be announced Wednesday.

Ted Williams continues ahead as the biggest individual vote getter with 1,182,304. Stan Musial is second with 1,174,201.

The two leaders in each league:

National League

Bitter Reprieve

THE STORY: Harry Bindle, a gambler, owes Harry Bindle a gambling debt of $10,000. He cannot pay it. His wealthy wife, Miriam, has refused him the money. He comes home late after dodging Bindle all day. Miriam is over a million dollars in debt. Miriam comes in, wearing her fabulous diamond necklace. In order to get her out of the library before Bindle arrives, Marcus gives her a doped drink. Keyed up by the doped drink, Miriam, wounded, takes her drink to her room. At 11 on the dot, Bindle shows up. He demands the money. Miriam, cornered, gets an idea. She goes up to her wife's room. Miriam, wounded, takes her diamond necklace from a wall safe. To make it appear a burglary, she also takes a sash pocket, then scatters things about.

HARRY BINDLE was getting restless. He frowned at the whisky bottle, stubbed out his half-smoked cigar in the ashtray. He got up. He crossed to the radio and turned a dial to shut off the orchestral jangle. He looked at his watch. It had stopped. His beaded eyes swept the room. He discovered a small clock, supported by a slender white figure, perched on a sturdy ebony table. He crossed to it, saw the short length of cord reaching from the base of the table to the folds of a drape. Neat, he thought. Then his eyes blinked. Twenty minutes of 12!

He strode across the room, went out into the hall, listened. He went to the front door and recovered his hat, pulled it tightly down on his head. He buttoned his coat and his hands sank into his side pockets. He walked briskly to the stairway, looked up toward the dimly lighted landing, listened. He heard no sound. Bindle had gone up one step when he halted. Sterling was emerging stealthily from a door. Bindle could just see beyond the head of the stairway. Bindle watched as Sterling pulled the door shut, cautiously without making a sound. Sterling was descending before Bindle, arrested by his surprise, had backed off the stairs. "Anxious?" Sterling's tone was surly.

"I begin to think you was taking a powder," Bindle snapped. STERLING ignored that, stalked into the library. Bindle followed close behind. Sterling jerked a hand into his coat pocket and dropped Miriam's necklace on the coffee table. "Maybe you've heard about those diamonds," Sterling said. "If they're what I think they are, yes."

"That's what they are. My wife's father gave her that necklace for a wedding present." "The papers was full of it." "Then I don't need to tell you what it's worth." "A hundred grand, the papers put it." "Right." "Maybe so. I ain't in the diamond business. So what?" Sterling's expression turned to something close to hatred for the man standing across from him. "It's good security, isn't it?" "Oh, security."

"Certainly. What did you think?" "I wasn't thinking, Sterling. I was waiting to hear what you had to say. Since your wife is willing to take you out of hock by putting up a hundred grand worth of diamonds, I'd say it must be her idea to give you ten grand in cash tomorrow so you can pick up the necklace. Right?" "Not tomorrow, Bindle. I'm away. Leaving just as soon as you go. You may have seen my bag already packed in the hall."

Bindle rubbed his chin against his coat lapel, peered narrowly at Sterling. "Not tomorrow, huh? Let's see. Tomorrow's Friday. Saturday's my big day. I got to have my money for Saturday. I'll give you till Saturday noon. This time at my office, Sterling." Sterling's nerves were wearing thin. "Okay. Saturday noon." "And a final word, Sterling. If you don't show up by Saturday noon, I'll have to use the necklace to raise cash. Understand?" Sterling shrugged impatiently. "All right. I guess that's all."

BINDLE'S hands remained buried in his pockets. His eyes wandered about the room, came to rest on the wide desk in a corner. Then he glanced anxiously at Sterling. "Maybe you would have a big envelope to put the necklace in. I ain't anxious to handle it." Sterling stifled a protest. "Sure," he agreed gruffly, picking up the necklace. He went to the desk, found a long, white envelope, and dropped the necklace into it. Bindle had followed and stood at his shoulder.

"Now seal it," Bindle said, "and write across the flap, 'Hold for Marcus Sterling.' Make it your regular signature." Sterling frowned, his face flushed, his patience at the breaking point. But he sat down abruptly before the desk. "All right, if that's the way it has to be."

Bindle watched while only the scratch of the pen across the back of the envelope disturbed the silence. Sterling turned in his chair and handed up the envelope. Bindle took it with his left hand and slipped it into his topcoat pocket. Bindle then waited for Sterling to get up and lead the way from the room. He had no intention of turning his back on an adversary with whom he had driven such a hard bargain.

At the door, Sterling asked, "Won't you want a cab? I didn't hear a car when you came." "No, you didn't hear a car. I don't mind walking the last two or three blocks. Sometimes it ain't so good. Sterling, to let a cab-driver know exactly where he's taking you, or exactly where you came from."

Bindle had sidled through the door while saying that. He stood facing Sterling. "Saturday by noon," he said. He did not turn to go down from the porch until Sterling had closed the door. (To Be Continued)

Storms To Prove Value Of 2-Way Radio Network

By Cecil Tendick

Short wave radio communication becomes more popular every day. Almost universal in police work, it is now being installed by companies who desire to maintain close touch with men located throughout the territory.

The Illinois Rural Electric company, REA cooperative with lines in Scott, Morgan, Greene, Pike, Calhoun, Brown, Cass and Adams counties, has recently acquired a system. Everyone of the 15 licensed operators are enthusiastic about it. They point out the ease and simplicity of getting in contact with any one of maintenance or construction trucks.

Speed Big Factor

Enthusiasts say every electric service company needs radio communication. They assert a storm usually tears out telephone lines before power lines. Usually telephone lines are repaired later. Radio communication permits the power company to assemble all personnel scattered over the area and get them on repair work in tight time.

Stanley R. Paris, manager of the cooperative, points out that there aren't too many telephones in many sections of the territory. When a system is completed each crew will report changes of location to the main office in Winchester. A glance at the map will show the executive where his men are and how they can be deployed to get the job done fast.

May Call For Help

Usually a lineman and a groundsman are sent out when a break is reported. Often they can do the job themselves. If more men are needed, a radio call to the home office will speed up resumption of service.

The main transmitter is housed at the base of the 205 foot aerial located on a hill a couple of hundred feet from the main plant. Sets are now installed in the plant and in service trucks located at Barry, Milton, Carrollton, and Winchester. Deon Pinkerton, superintendent of distribution and transmission, has a set in his Plymouth coach.

Full Network Planned

Three more units have been ordered: for the office, the construction crew and the manager's home. Sam Dinwiddie, Jacksonville radio technician, is the chief operator and maintenance man.

Radio advocates like the speed the two-way sets afford. Today telephone companies handle far more calls than the rated capacity of their equipment. Delay is inevitable.

The writer, in Carrollton last week, wanted to get a photograph of Mr. Hawden. It took four and one half minutes to complete a phone call to the generating station. Mr. Collins contacted the Greene county man in 42 seconds. He was working at a residence in Eldred.

The telephone toll was 20 cents. It appears a radio communication set could well pay its own way in normal times. Its true value will come when storms rip down electric and telephone wires.

Kentucky Wonder Vine Yields Both White, Green Pods

Elbridge W. (Bud) Tiff, well known amateur gardener, residing at 841 N. Main street, Saturday showed his friends some extraordinary string beans. Half of them were nearly white, half were dark green. All were off the same vine.

Mr. Tiff doesn't think the plant is a "sport," one of those freaks of the vegetable world which is always sought by geneticists.

He explains the unusual crop this way. The variety is the old standard, white Kentucky Wonder. He saved the seed from last year's harvest and planted them in April. The white beans are of the early bud clusters, which had a relatively tough time getting adequate nitrogen due to lack of moisture.

The next group of blossoms had clear sailing during the last three weeks. They grew to an enormous length, one was more than nine inches long, and have such a high nitrogen content that the beans were a vivid green. They'll probably bleach out within the next week or so, he feels.

Jacksonville Helped Celebrate Uncle Sam's 100th Birthday

By Walter B. Hendrickson

July 4, 1876, the one hundredth birthday of the United States, was celebrated everywhere with loud enthusiasm. In Philadelphia, the birthplace of the Union, where a great Centennial Exposition was in progress, cannon salutes and church bells heralded the day. By 8:30 in the morning the streets were lined with spectators waiting for the monster parade that was reviewed from a stand in front of Independence Hall by Civil War hero General William Tecumseh Sherman, Prince Oscar of Sweden, and many other celebrities.

Two oxen and several sheep provided a mammoth barbecue at Roodhouse, Illinois. New York had a "grand, imposing, soul stirring" pageant, especially illuminated to provide a scene of "unparalleled beauty" and exploding fireworks caused a $100,000 fire in Beekman Street.

A balloonist attempted to make an ascension at Lafayette, Indiana, "but from some mishap the balloon failed to do its duty. The navigator is not expected to live." Thirty thousand men paraded in Dublin, Ireland. "Rah for our Irish friends!" Out on the West coast at San Francisco a three day celebration included a military review, a sham battle at the Presidio, and a thundering bombardment by the fleet in the Bay.

—O—
Jacksonville, too, added its noise of pride and praise to the cacophony that arose from all the world. Plans were in the making for days before the Fourth. There was to be a ball game between the Jacksonville Blues and the visiting Pekin Stars; an open air picnic with free ice-water at Oak Lawn Retreat; and a more robust entertainment of trotting horse races, a greased pig chase, a sack race, and other popular contests at the county fairgrounds.

Yes, it was to be a "ge-lorious" Fourth. If the rainy weather would only cease. Heavy showers had fallen daily since the first of July on Saturday. Farmers complained that if the rain didn't stop, the wheat crop would be ruined. And so with damp enthusiasm, plans were ripened. Flags, cannon-crackers, and fireworks were for sale "as cheap as the cheapest" at the stand on South Main and the Square. Monday evening the Drum and Pipe Band practiced for their appearance at Oak Lawn. Captain Harrison of the Fire Department readied the new hose pump, just arrived on July 1, for possible emergencies. On July 3 the city policemen wore their new uniforms for the first time.

Mrs. Jacksonville went to the grocery to lay in supplies for the picnic dinner: eggs to be devilled and stuffed (10 cents a dozen); ham for sandwiches (16 cents a pound); and potatoes for salad (15 cents a peck). On the way she stopped at the Dollar Day Sale at Woods, Cassell, Simons and Company on East State Street to buy 4 1/2 pounds of "first rate Rio coffee", 8 1/2 pounds of A sugar, 12 yards of the best calico, and 10 yards of percale.

Mr. Jacksonville went to Wells store where he selected a new "Draped" tuxedo, an alpaca coat, a linen duster, and a "celebrated Excelsior" white vest, a New York Mills shirt, and six paper collars.

A number of young people planned an all day picnic at Mrs. Cully's house in the country northwest of the city. Others went to bed early to be up in time to catch the 6 A.M. Toledo, Wabash, and Western train for Macedonia to take a steamboat trip up the Illinois River. Some J'villers went to visit friends and relatives in other cities. C. M. Eames, editor of the Journal, was one of a number who spent the Fourth at the Centennial Exposition in Philadelphia.

—O—
After a night of crash and bang from the firearms and firecrackers of early celebrators, the great day dawned, but with it came a heavy drenching rain that threatened to upset all the well-laid plans. The man of the house gingerly retrieved his damp morning Journal from the shrubby rooftop, or other inaccessible place where newsboys put papers on rainy days. Then, to the tune of the drumming rain, while he ate his breakfast steak and potatoes, he read the Declaration of Independence, printed because the editor of the Journal believed that "every citizen and every young man ought to read it today," and have enlightenment in his own heart a warmer patriotism.

With such a wet start it is not surprising that many things did not go according to plan. The program at Oak Lawn was canceled, and just as well, too, because it would certainly have been a tame show "too much water," said the Journal reporter, since the committee had "wisely decided to have no display of fireworks nor the noise and fuss sometimes heard and seen at Fourth of July celebrations."

But the rain slackened somewhat by ten o'clock and groups of men and boys stood on the street corners anxiously watching the clouds, and indulging in expressions not altogether such as Christians should use. By noon the rain had stopped and people went to the Baseball Park on South Main opposite the Insane Asylum. There "a few gentlemen had a little friendly shooting match," and then Manager Rowe of the Jacksonville Blues read a telegram from the Pekin team saying that because of the rain they would not be there. The fans booed this announcement, protesting that it was a "very small tick" and declaring that the Stars were afraid of the Blues. So two pickup teams entertained the crowd to a score of 8-13.

—O—
Out at the Fairgrounds the program started at 3 o'clock, when Mr. Ed. L. McDonald read the Declaration of Independence and Mr. Lawrence Devine gave a speech. The two advertised spellbinders, Judge Whitlock and James N. Brown, did not "wish to speak in the open air," but promised to make their "little speeches" at St. Patrick's Hall in the evening. The Vivian Cornet Band from Virginia, however, "discouraged its sweetest strains throughout the day." Probably because of a muddy track, the trotting races "did not amount to a good deal," but the sack race, the greased pig chase, and other events were satisfactorily run off and the eight or nine hundred people had a good time.

Of course there were many private parties and picnics like that at Mrs. Cully's where "music, croquet, speaking, and a delicious supper of ice cream, cake, lemonade, etc." were "enough to make a wooden man enjoy himself."

—O—
But the day was not yet over. In the evening many people came to the town square to see the decorated store windows. The merchants on the east block of the south side had especially bright and colorful displays of Chinese lanterns and rows of lighted candles. Rutledge and Mathers attracted attention with one hundred massed American flags.

The fireworks stand on the corner did a brisk business and one can imagine that, with blazing bonfires, exploding cannon-crackers, and numerous displays of fireworks, it was a noisy and dangerous night. Yet, no accidents were reported! Some mixed their fireworks with firewater and the Journal reporter was shocked at the number of drunks on the streets.

In somewhat quieter mood, the Knights Templars held a conclave; a crowd gathered at St. Patrick's Hall for the postponed speech-making; the Turnverein put on a ball; and the colored folks had a dance in Music Hall.

And so on into the night of the Fourth of July, 1876, J'villers celebrated the end of the first century in the life of the United States and hailed the beginning of the second. It had been a noisy, lusty day; but it does seem that Jacksonville missed the significance of the occasion and one cannot but agree with the editor of the Journal when he said: "We had a celebration which did not think this with a slight exertion, plays of Chinese lanterns and rows of lighted candles. Rutledge and Mathers attracted attention with one hundred massed American flags. The fireworks stand on the corner did a brisk business and one can imagine that, with blazing bonfires,
